EXPERIENCE

Director and Creator, The Sunday Six September 2019 - Present

The Sunday Six is a new project that brings new works to life in six hours. I source new works from all over the US via submissions. I cast the shows from submissions within the Manhattan School of Music community via online submission form. The preshow happens in about a week where my assistant and I gather the supplies we will need to make the show happen. On the given Sunday actors show up at 10am and we begin our work on the show. I stage and work through in 6 hours and in our last hour we present what we have to an invited audience.

Assistant Director, Manhattan School of Music, The Wild Party December 2019 - February 2020

I worked under Chloe Treat as her assistant director. I handled all the daily notes for cast, crew and technical production areas. I took part in nightly production meetings and problem solving. I handled the mic switch plot and all the digital media needed to support the rehearsal process. Occasionally I was called upon to stand in for actors as needed. I also ended up designing and maintaining the wigs for the show.

Assistant Director, Manhattan School of Music, Cabaret November 2018- February 2019

I assisted on a new version of Kander and Ebb's Cabaret, I had a range of duties as this was a production with a large production team. I worked along side Don Stephenson, Amanda Joshi, Liza Gennaro and David Loud. I worked as a point of communication between many of the different technical departments. I gained experience taking notes and giving notes to actors and tech. Worked with actors running lines when not used. I created movement plots for all of the blocking traffic patterns onstage. I also rewrote this new version in its final form. I also was a swing during tech and final runs for a couple actors who were sick and injured. Tasked with a little bit of everything I was always working on something different.

Assistant Director, Manhattan School of Music, American Songbook: Irving Berlin 2018

I assisted Luis Perez in his direction of American Songbook: Irving Berlin, working with students at the Manhattan School of Music. This being a revue there was a lot of room for creativity when it came to characters. I had the opportunity to direct students with their scenes within the songs. I was also working as the costume designer on this show which gave me a very unique situation to be incredibly creative.

Director, Morningside 2017 - November 2019

I worked on a new work by Jarret Winters Morley called Morningside. I have been on the creative team of this musical since 2017. Handling script edits and a bulk of the dramaturgy of this project. I was recently asked to direct the project in readings and workshop.

Director/ Writer, Studio Plays, First Impressions 2015

In 2015 I got the opportunity to submit and put up a 10 minute play that I wrote called First Impressions. It was an extremely hands on experience getting to coach the actors for 10 days, then teching for 2 and going straight into production.
